Our Montessori Method

The Montessori method, developed by Dr. Maria Montessori, emphasises child-centred learning, hands-on activity and collaborative play.

Research shows that this approach can lead to significant academic and non-academic gains for children.

Our Montessori education nurtures a holistic set of skills—academic proficiency, creativity, independence, social competence and practical abilities—that equip students for lifelong success in ways traditional methods often cannot achieve as effectively.

Bilingualism Supports Academic Success

Bilingualism provides our students with cognitive, academic, social, and cultural advantages that contribute to their overall development and academic success.

Improved Focus and Attention: better focus and attention spans because of continuous practise distinguishing between languages. This enhances our students' ability to concentrate on tasks and process information efficiently.

Problem-Solving Skills: the cognitive flexibility gained from bilingualism allows children to approach problems creatively and think critically.

Improved Math Performance:

research shows that bilingual students often outperform monolingual peers in math due to their enhanced problem-solving abilities and flexible thinking strategies.

How do we integrate 21st-century skills?

Our curriculum prioritises the "4Cs"—communication, creativity, critical thinking and collaboration:

- communication: students develop strong verbal and written communication skills through discussions, presentations and interactive activities
- creativity: project-based learning and arts integration encourage students to think innovatively and explore creative solutions to problems.
- critical thinking: analytical reasoning is emphasized through inquiry-based learning, problem-solving tasks and decision-making exercises.
- collaboration: group projects and peer interactions foster teamwork and interpersonal skills.
